BRANDED AS A NUISANCE

Serious Complaint Against Number Four Police Station.

The Rest of the Residents in the Neighborhood Disturbed by Loud, Boisterous, and Disorderly Singing, Shouting, Howling, and Cursing by Prisoners of Both Sexes.

J. Raymond Stafford, of 338 Indiana Aveaue, recently wrote to the Commissioners complaining of the loud and boisterous shouting and singing indulged in by the prisoners locked up from time to time in the Fourth precinct stationhouse.

"I desire to call your attention," he writes, "to a nuisance of almost nightly occurrence at the Fourth precinct stationhouse in South Washington. I refer to the loud, boisterous, and disorderly singing, shouting, howling, and cursing indulged in by those who are so unfortunate as to fird themselves within the walls of the said station. The time selected for this most intolerable and unpleasant entertainment s usually about midnight, and from then until dawn a stranger passing within two squares of the station would justly conclude that bediam had broken loose.

"On August 7 the whole neighborhood was kept awake the entire night by songs, specches, and curses, emanating from a man in the custody of the police. About 2 a. m. I called up the station and informed the officer in charge that there were in my residence two persons very sick and requested him to silence the offender, or at least to place him in some portion of the station where his vocal exercises would not disturb the whole neighborhood. The officer replied that he could only request the prisoner to keep silent. That the prisoner to keep silent. oner did not do so it is unnecessary to add.
"Now, gentlemen, I understand that there are in all stations a dungeon for unruly or disorderly persons, and, in my humble opinion, a man who will through the entire night disturb the whole neighborhood within a radius of two blocks from the place of detention, ought to be in-carcerated in a dungeon. Mr. Commissioners, the thing has been going on for the past three years, and complaint after complaint has been sent to the official in charge of the Fourth precinct police sta-tion, and during that entire period not one thing has been done to abate this most disagreeable nuisance. We have ordinances disagreeable nuisance. We have ordinances for crowing roosters, barking dogs, etc., why not let us have a police regulation for howling men and singing women, who howl and sing not once or twice, but throughout the entire night.

"In conclusion, let me say that this communication is addressed to you not only on my behalf, but at the request and on behalf of many of the recidents in the vicinity of the aforesaid stationhouse.

Lieutenant Hollinberger, of the Fourth precinct, in reporting upon the letter of Mr. Stafford, at the request of the Conmissioners, stated that the nuisance complained of is one that exists at times in all stationhouses, and one that it is in all stationhouses, and one that it is difficult to abate. It often happens, he says, especially on Sunday nights, that the cells in this station are all full of drunken men and women, who make night hidrous by their noise. "In some instances," he continues "when prefere and the continues the continues that the continues that can be seen that the seen the seen that the seen that the seen that the seen that the seen the seen that the seen the seen that the seen that the seen the see by their noise. "In some instances," he continues, "where profane and indecent language is used, a separate charge of profanity in the station is made, and has been sustained by the Police Court.
"In the special case named by Mr. Stafford, on August 7, Officer McGrath asked for an information on the charge, but was refused by Mr. Elliott, who was acting for Mr. Pugh.
"We have a dark cell in the basement, but owing to its being so damp it can seldom be used to incarcerate p. Isoners, and in cold weather it is unfit for use, as it is not heated."

The Superintendent of Police, upon the for information regarding the issuing of informations by Mr. Elliott. Mr. Sinclair reported to the Superintendent that Mr. Elliott, who is a member of the Metropolitan police force detailed in the office of the District Attorney, performs duties that are strictly ministerial, and that he is an information writer and not are information to considerably more than that of other grades.
